Dear Harold,

I enclose copies of my letter to Dr. G.T. Mann and his first reply to me — he has since replied further saying he can add nothing without information and experimentation which is beyond him. Anyway I would like to hear what you think of Dr. Mann's opinion.

With regard to my letter to him — I said there was no bullet in the wound because the object of the letter was ascertain if it was possible for a rose stem to inflict the damage, mention of metal in the neck and the shoulder wound would have clouded the issue. All the damage that I mention is taken from the medical reports and doctors' evidence in 26 vols.

Dr. Mann seems to view my theory as a possibility, at least. The only other reply I have so far recieved was from Dr. Cyril Wecht — he realized my letter related to the JFK assass.; his opinion was that the internal damage inflicted was such that it precluded the possibility of a rose stem inflicting it.

Anyway, I would like to hear what you now have to say on this in the light of Dr. Mann's opinion. I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Regards

Colin
